

2020 IICB Certified Rigger and Signalperson Report

Exam Development started in 2017 and in July and August of 2018 beta exams were given and scored. The questions were analyzed and weighed to determine the passing score. The written exams were then set up as computer-based exams to aid in securing the exam questions. There are two versions of the exams 112 questions each and the answers are scrambled. The Performance Exam has 5 sections and a time limit of 2 hours. (See the candidate manual for more on exam development.)

Proctor and Observer Training slowed down in 2020

During 2019, forty-four (44) Ironworkers passed the written and practical exam then took the Proctors and Observer training.

2020 brought us COVID-19 and slowed down the testing and training. Only 22 more Proctor and Observers were added.

2020 Exam performance

Throughout 2020 the Computer Based exam was given to a total of 53 members.

28 passed the first time or 53%

7 passed on their second attempt or 13%

18 failed both attempt or 34%

Performance Evaluation

35 candidates were now eligible to take the five-section performance evaluation.

16 Candidates or 46% passed the performance exam on their first attempt.

13 Candidates or 37% passed the performance exam on their second attempt.

6 or 17% failed the performance exam two times. See candidate manual for more information.

A total of 53 members were tested in 2020 and 29 or 55% passed both the written and performance exam.

The 22 Ironworkers that successfully completed the Certified Riggers and Signalpersons exams in 2020 at the Regional Training Centers went on to complete the Proctor and Observer Training. They can now proctor written and performance exams at their home training centers.

Note: Each testing center must confirm they have a secure location and equipment for the computer-based exam, a secure location for the performance exam and the required rigging equipment kit, test load and frame. During all testing there must be an approved Proctor and Observer present.

Congratulations to the Certified Rigger and Signal Persons from 2020
